

Instructions

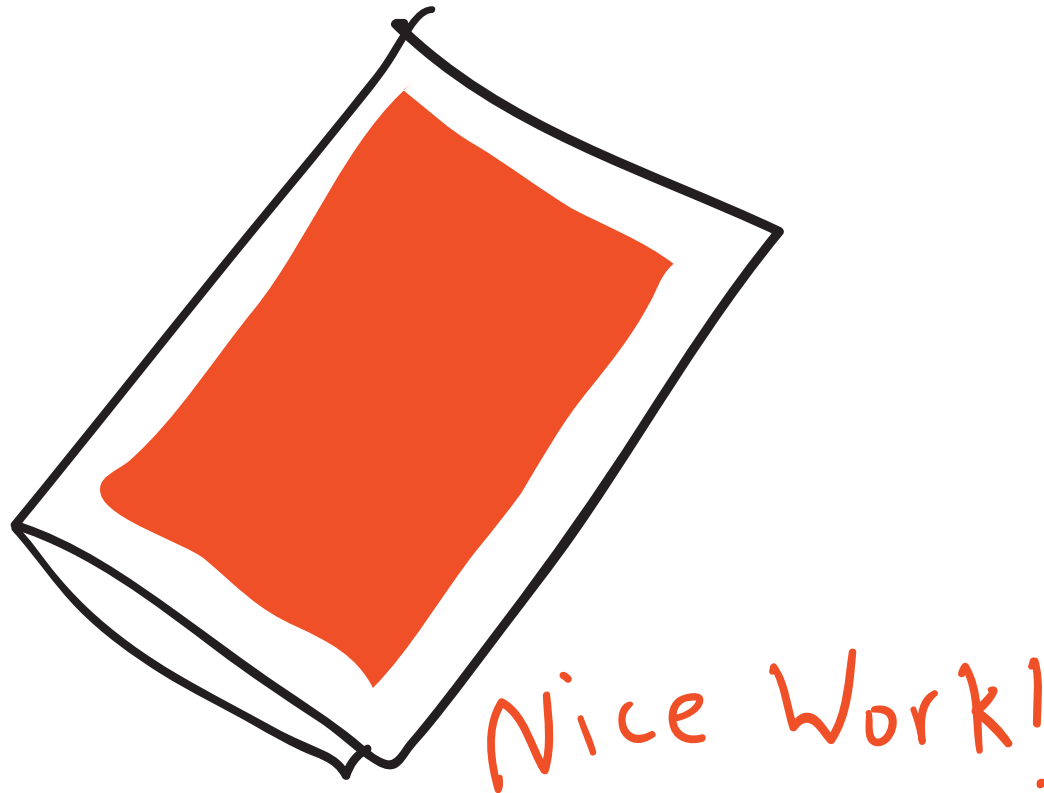

Step 1. Fold the card in the only conceivable way that makes sense.

Step 2. Open the card, on the inside write an apology or something you think the recipient would like to hear. Phrases like "You were right," "I didn't know you were related," "it didn't mean anything I swear," and "I was faking it this whole time" are good templates to start with.

Step 3. Close the card.

Step 4. Give card to recipient

Step 5. Remember that sentences that start with "for what it's worth" are inherently worthless.

OK, there's something you should know

For

What

OOOPS!!

It's

Sorry

Look, you're great, but...

Worth...
